Fistfight leads to gunfire

Two face multiple felony charges from Sunday morning incident

By Ben Carlson
News staff

A Lawrenceburg man who police say returned to the scene of a fistfight with a gun and opened fire has been charged with five felony counts of wanton endangerment and a host of other charges.

Police say Nathan Burton, 34, of 118 Djeddah Drive "got the worst" of an altercation early Sunday morning at 107 Holly Court. Police say he left but returned a short time later and fired multiple shots are several victims. No one was hit by the gunfire but a neighbor's house apparently was, according to police.

Burton allegedly arrived at the location with the gun in a car driven by Kathie Litherland, 30, of 1055 O'Hara Drive, Lawrenceburg. She was also arrested and charged with four felony counts of wanton endangerment and tampering with physical evidence. Additional charges against Burton include tampering with physical evidence and possession of marijuana

From staff reports

When Brianna Mowry allegedly decided to leave her small child home alone and walked to a neighbor's house to catch a buzz, it's doubtful she thought Lawrenceburg police officers would be waiting for her when she returned home.

Mowry, 19, of 121 Hunter Ridge, Lawrenceburg was "clearly under the influence of what she said was marijuana" when Chief Chris Atkins spotted her walking home last Tuesday afternoon, according to an arrest report.

Police charged her with second-degree wanton endanger-

Burgoo on tap for this weekend

Seven teams set to compete in cookoff

By Ben Carlson
News staff

The arrival of fall means one thing for certain in Anderson County: it's time to burgoo.

The annual Burgoo Festival kicks off Friday with a full array of entertainment, activities, live music and the wildly popular burgoo cookoff to support Shop With a Cop.

The cookoff, this year featuring eight teams, is Saturday from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. near the stage at the Lawrenceburg Green.

Teams scheduled to compete include three-time defending champion Four Roses along with Wild Turkey, Farmers Bank, Atmos Energy, Dudley Darnell and newcomers the Anderson County Democratic Committee and Town & Country Bank.

Anyone who makes a $2 donation is welcome to judge each team's burgoo and booth. The team receiving the most total points is declared the winner and is awarded a trophy donated by David Brown of Events Imaging and Awards in Lawrenceburg.

The festival itself kicks off Friday with music by The Winds of Yesterday on the courthouse lawn at 5 p.m., followed by the Larry Williams Band, part of the Summer Concert Series on the Lawrenceburg Green.

Jeff Waldrige will begin a ghost walk at 8 p.m., and the Killin' Time Band will perform from 8 to 11 p.m. at the courthouse lawn.

Travis Huber says he has big plans for his Cub Scouts with the money he raises.

By Shelley Spillman

Travis Huber, cubmaster for Cub Scout Pack 38, plans to repel down the 410 foot-tall Lexington Financial Center building if his fundraising goal of $2,000 is met.

"I want to make this year as big and crazy as possible," said Huber. "What better way than climbing down a building?"

"Brave the Blue" is a fundraiser that allows organizations to set up a page on its website. The event isn't for the faint of heart, allowing true daredevils to rappel down the tallest building in Lexington. Now in its third year, "Brave the Blue" requires a minimum amount of $1,000 to be raised to participate.

Though Huber has only been cubmaster for a short time, he already has big plans ment and second-degree endangering the welfare of a minor after she allegedly left her 17-month-old child alone in its crib and walked across her neigh-

Mowry pleaded not guilty last Thursday in Anderson Circuit Court and was held on a $2,500 bond by Judge Betty Springate, who ordered Mowry to take "prescribed medications" as part of her bond requirements, according to court documents.

Police said the child was left alone in its crib for at least 20 minutes and was later placed in the care of a family member.

Police said they were alerted to the child being left alone when they received a call from Mowry's aunt.

Mowry's next court appearance is scheduled for Oct. 2.

ing at the Louisville Zoo, visiting the Newport Aquarium, a ski trip and a trip to South Carolina to the Patriots Point Naval and Maritime Museum.

Huber served as a U.S. Army medic for eight years. When Huber returned home in 2011, he wanted to make up for lost time with his now 7-year-old son, Tristan. He decided to take on the role of cub-master this year.

"I want to take the skills I learned and share it with the younger generation. It's been a great family growing experience," he said. "I feel like I've gained 100 sons. They keep me on my toes."

Many of the activities Pack 38 does revolves around science, technology, engineering and math, which are major curriculum focuses in Kentucky schools' Next Generation Science Standards.

In the past, they've had a pilot visit the pack to discuss the laws of thermodynamics, built bottle rockets, conducted nature conservation at the Salato Wildlife Center in Frankfort and had an archeologist oversee their Nova Project, a labor intensive project aimed at giving kids hands-on science and technology understanding.

"It's a lot of academics mixed with fun," said Huber.

Tristan Huber proudly displays his patch for outdoor conservation. He said he said he's really excited about visiting the zoo and has enjoyed making friends.

Theron Bruce, 8, said he loves "everything" about cub scouts. His favorite thing he's learned is archery.

Huber said he's seen kids grow from being involved in cub scouts and develop friendships across grade levels. He said he's heard of fellow cub scouts sticking up for a friend who was bullied at school. Huber said involvement in cub scouts has many practical applications that will serve kids throughout their life.

"It builds team ethics, camaraderie and the ability to think outside the box," he said. "I want the kids to think about the world as a bigger place and create opportunities that they wouldn't normally have."

Huber hopes with getting fundraising out of the way early in the year that there will be more freedom for fun experiences and learning opportunities.

Dangerous drugs to be discussed

From staff reports

The ongoing heroin epidemic and other drug-related concerns will be discussed Wednesday, Oct. 1 during an event titled "Community Chat: A Time to Act."

Sponsored by the Anderson County Agency for Substance Abuse Policy, the event will feature discussions on heroine, the dangers of electronic cigarettes and "alcopops" (energy drinks laced with alcohol) and other drug trends, according to a news release from the Anderson County Sheriff's Office.

The discussion will be from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the basement of the Anderson Extension building, located in the county park.

Leading the discussion will be Det. Bryan Taylor of the Anderson County Sheriff's Office and Anderson County Coroner Mark Tussey.

Admission is free and a free light lunch will be provided.

received a complaint of a strong ammonia odor coming from a shed behind the Fairview Drive residence.

When they arrived and started knocking on the door, they saw Robinson and Walldridge peeking out of the shed behind the residence, according to police reports.

Det. Jeremy Cornish and office Clay Crouch of the Lawrenceburg Police Department walked toward the shed, where they spotted "glass meth pipe" in plain sight, according to police reports.

Crouch then saw Robinson try to conceal what he said was a purple sock in his back pocket, the report said, which police later determined to contain 2.3 grams of heroin and .5 grams of crystal methamphetamine.

Robinson, according to the report, told police he needs to be in rehabilitation.

Robinson was charged with two felony counts of possessing and trafficking methamphetamine.

Crouch also observed Walldridge attempt to conceal a baggie inside her shirt sleeve while she sat on a couch in the shed, the police report said. The baggie contained .8 grams of crystal methamphetamine, and she was charged with felony possession of the drug.

Both pleaded not guilty last Thursday when they were arraigned in Anderson District Court. Robinson was held on a $5,000 cash bond after District Court Judge Donna Dutton determined he was a flight risk, court records show.

Walldridge was held on a $5,000 bond after also being determined by Dutton to be a flight risk.

Both were assigned a public defender after being declared indigent.

and drug paraphernalia. Burton pleaded not guilty to the charges Monday in Anderson District Court and was later released from the Shelby County Detention Center on $10,000 cash bail.

Litherland bonded out before her arraignment.

In his report, Lawrenceburg police officer James Dunn said when he arrived at 107 Holly Court, three victims there said Burton had fired a gun at them. Dunn said while he was processing the crime scene, Burton called one of the victims and said next time he would "make it count."

Soon after, Burton called for emergency medical services from his Djeddah Drive home and, when Dunn and Deputy Brian Boggs of the Anderson County Sheriff's Office arrived, Burton admitted shooting at the victims because one of them assaulted him.

Police say Burton told them he couldn't remember which of his guns he used in the shooting, but said they'd find it beneath the couch on which he was seated at the time.

When officers searched, they reported finding three handguns, marijuana, scales, tweezers and a pipe.

The case remains under investigation by the Lawrenceburg Police Department.

The oddest thing you'll read this week

Want to be considered a minority? No problem

Column as I see 'em ...
The same organization that oversees the (public) education of your children wrote the following, which would be sort of funny were it not such a serious subject:
"The candidate who wishes to be elected to the school council as a minority representative on the school council must be the minority. However, if a person declares himself/herself a minority, he or she should be considered so for the purpose of fulfilling the requirements of minority council member."

Ben Carlson
Publisher

I'll give you some background on this in a moment, but first consider what you just read. It says, in summary, that if a person declares him or herself a minority, he or she must be considered a minority, which means, I suppose, anyone who chooses to be a minority is a minority in the eyes of the state education department.
I share this because the high school here apparently now has a minority population of 8 percent or higher, triggering the need for a minority representative on its site-based decision council.
That requirement (KRS 160, if you care) is courtesy of your state legislature, which is keen on passing laws for others that it doesn't have to follow itself.

I'm sure that's not the spirit in which the law was written but is almost certainly the byproduct of thinking that the legislative process is the only means by which fairness can be achieved in society. Sort of sad, isn't it?

Quibble if you will about the thought process required to think that a non-minority cannot represent a minority as well as a minority; I'll leave that to you.
The "anyone can be a minority" loophole is but one of many questions I had about the law, and I found that definition when I wondered what would happen if a white person adopted a person of color and wanted to run for the site-based council.
It appears the white person could, but so could any other white person should he or she claim to be a minority.

I'm sure that's not the spirit in which the law was written but is almost certainly the byproduct of thinking that the legislative process is the only means by which fairness can be achieved in society.

Sort of sad, isn't it?
As for the legislature, perhaps before it concerns itself with legislating morality for everyone else it should first consider the dirt under its own carpet.
Census data show that Kentucky's African American population stands at just over 8 percent, but of the 138 people serving in the state House and Senate, only eight are African American. That's only 6 percent of the total, and in using the legislature's own logic, means the group as a whole is underrepresented, right?
Further, were that logic painted with an even wider brush, the current president couldn't possibly represent the interests of whites, Hispanics, Asians, Indians or anyone but those with his racial background, right?

Speaking of site-based councils ...
I've never been a fan of them and here's why. Those eligible to be elected must have a child in the school. Only those with a child in the school are eligible to vote. Yet the council, which includes teachers and the principal, spends tax dollars paid by everyone who pays school taxes.
Taxpayers without a child in the school have zero say in how their money is spent, and have no way to voice their displeasure at the ballot box.
What's more, those councils are just one more level of plausible deniability for the school board — "We didn't hire that principle!" "We didn't spend the money on that!" — which is the only body that should be in charge of spending tax dollars, including discretionary funds.

Speaking of dollars ...
If you're among the thousands of people planning to attend this year's haunted house at Eagle Lake and like reading this newspaper, I have a deal for you.
We've teamed up with Sheriff Troy Young to promote the haunted house — it's a fundraiser for Shop With a Cop — and will give four free VIP tickets to anyone who subscribes or renews through Oct. 31.
That's a $20 value, which equals more than half the cost of a one-year subscription.
Better yet, they are VIP tickets, meaning you'll be able to go to the front of what last year were hours-long lines to get in.
You can't get those tickets anywhere else, so subscribe or renew and enjoy.
Best of all, all proceeds from the event help buy Christmas gifts for children in need.
That's a deal you just can't beat.

Speaking of Shop With a Cop ...
Our annual burgoo cookoff is Saturday near the stage at Lawrenceburg Green.
If you've never been check it out Saturday between 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. The teams are great, the burgoo is great and everyone who donates $2 to Shop With a Cop gets to be a judge.
We have a great lineup of teams ready to blow you away with their burgoo and awesome displays.
Even if you don't like burgoo, drop a buck or two in our donation box and help needy children have a better Christmas this year — or a Christmas at all.

There are plenty of reasons to fall in love with fall

To say that I am zealous about fall is an understatement. I love Starbucks Pumpkin Spice lattes and eagerly await its arrival every year, the weather is perfect, the leaves changing colors, apple cider ... need I say more? But mostly, fall is my favorite season because it has way of making me feel nostalgic.

Just this week, I was driving to work and heard the song "Monster Mash" on the radio. Man, does that sound bring back memories. When I was in Use leaves to fertilize your garden

Well, it's here. I'm truly surprised that there weren't parties all over the county last night. Why? There's a bunch of you that love fall. You love the colors and the temperatures. It's probably my second favorite season, only because it's typically warmer than spring.

Cheryl Steenerson
Columnist

To me, the best part of fall is the pleasurable temperatures to get work done outside, and I don't think I'm alone. Farmers are getting the last cut of hay rolled and stored. Tobacco is being cut and hung. Gardens are being put to bed, pruning is in full swing, chainsaws are buzzing and the brush pile is growing. Whew!

Those of you with lots of leaves may dread the start of fall. Black bags start to line the sidewalk's edge. You know if you mow/mulch those leaves and then catch them in the mower bag, you've got flaky gold, right? Put those shredded leaves lightly across the surface of your garden and you're adding free fertilizer. Just work it into the soil this fall or spring.

Mother Nature does an awfully good job of making the farm pretty, but occasionally I spend some time adding non-edible plants to my landscape. Permanent flowerbeds are slowly popping up around the house, and I am a firm believer in using gravel as mulch for those.

Buying gravel by the bag offers you a variety of colors, but it sure does take a bite out of the billfold. Buying gravel by the load is much cheaper. I've found the light gray color really makes the green and any other color really pop. Just remember to get good landscape matting, the 20-year kind, to lie down before you spread it. You'll end up with beautiful beds and very little weeding needed throughout the year.

Fall is also the time to stock up on lint rollers because stick-tights are in full bloom so to speak. Zeus and Spanky are really good at gathering them. I keep the dog brushes right by the door. How they can ride a dog through thick and thin outside and then magically drop off in the house, I will never know.

The Burgoo Festival is this weekend, and I hope you all stop by the Anderson Humane Society booth. Come empty your piggy bank and you could win a country ham. We'll have some great raffle items for both University of Kentucky and University of Louisville lovers, along with some humorous T-shirts and other assorted items, in addition to pictures and information about all of our adoptable animals. Look for us on Main Street and help support a great cause.

Now, get outside in this lovely weather. Plan a bonfire for the day's end and cook up some s'mores. Fall is the perfect season to work hard and play hard.

Happy growing.

Fall is a great time to fertilize woody plants

So often we hear that fall or winter is a particularly good time to do certain things in the landscape. This is usually due to the fact that plants have entered into winter dormancy.

Tommy Yankey
Columnist

You can compare dormancy to an extended period of "rest" for plants, when they are relatively inactive in terms of metabolic processes (photosynthesis, respiration and transpiration, for example). I say relatively inactive, because although these processes slow during dormancy, they do not cease altogether. Most temperate perennial plants will enter dormancy in autumn as daylight shortens, temperatures (including soil temperatures) become cooler, terminal buds are set and perhaps as a result of drier conditions during late summer and fall.

Going dormant is the way these plants survive the cold of winter. It is important that landscape maintenance activities not interfere with the plant's natural process of becoming dormant. Let's use pruning and fertilization practices as examples.

Fall is considered a poor time to prune most woody perennials. Pruning will remove terminal buds that help to maintain dormancy in many species. The presence of the terminal bud, even in a seemingly inactive state, suppresses the growth of lower buds through a process called apical dominance, a type of dormancy imposed on the lateral buds.

If you remove the apical bud, it may encourage lateral buds to initiate growth in a plant that has not yet fully entered a dormant state. Once lateral bud growth is initiated, dormancy will be hard to achieve, even with the advent of shortening day length and cooler temperatures. So pruning in the fall may trigger new growth that delays dormancy and predisposes the plant to winter injury.

It is better to prune plants in late winter, around mid-February to mid-March. This also allows you to evaluate and remove winter-damaged limbs. Pruning in late winter will occur just before one of the most active times of plant growth, bud break, when the plant is redirecting stored nutrients from the root system out to the branches. This would be the most rapid time for the plant to heal wounds (in our case the pruned surface), while fall would be the slowest time for wound healing.

An exception is if you are removing dead or severely damaged limbs due to breakage, insects or disease. In that case, it is best for you to remove them as soon as possible at any time of the year. If the plant you are pruning is spring-blooming (generally flowering before early June), it would be better from a flowering display perspective to wait until after flowering to prune since the pruning process will remove preexisting flower buds.

What about fertilization of woody plants? Fall and winter are considered the best times to apply fertilizer, but you should only do this once woody plants are fully dormant. Otherwise, applying fertilizer might trigger new growth and predispose the plant to winter injury.

How can you tell if plant is dormant? If leaves are falling, the plant has probably entered dormancy sufficiently to allow fertilization. To be doubly safe, wait until temperatures are unlikely to climb into the 70-degree range. In Kentucky, this could occur anytime from mid-October to mid-November, so to be absolutely safe this probably means mid-November or later. It's best to get the fertilizer down before the soil has frozen so it won't remain on the soil surface and won't be subject to runoff with any additional precipitation.

If you don't fertilize between Thanksgiving and Christmas, wait until the ground thaws in late February or early March to apply fertilizer. However, you must realize that February and March are not the best times for applying fertilizer to lawns composed of cool-season grasses (fescues, bluegrass and perennial ryegrass). If you are regularly applying fertilizer to your lawn, woody plants growing nearby are likely getting sufficient nutrients from these applications and probably don't need additional fertilizer.

Leaving your lights on is more costly than you think

It's a myth that turning off the lights isn't necessary. The truth is that it depends on what type of lighting you have and how long the light will be off before you need it again.

This column may bring satisfaction to some who read it because they were right, and irritation to those who were having the all too familiar disagreement about the subject.

Why does it matter anyway? Household lighting uses about 12 percent of the energy in a home and it's one of the easiest ways to control home energy use. Nevertheless, it's worth noting that heating (29 percent), cooling (17 percent), water heating (14 percent) and appliances (13 percent) all use more energy than home lighting. However, because of the greater purchase cost of those items, it's easier to control home lighting expenses.

The four types of lights that are commonly found in homes are LED, incandescent, halogen, and fluorescent.

The most efficient is LED or light emitting diode. These are also the most expensive. The operating life of LEDs is unaffected by turning the light on and off. LEDs turn on at full brightness almost instantly. LEDs offer similar light quality to traditional incandescent bulbs, last 25 times as long and use less energy than CFLs. They are largely unaffected by vibration. LED lighting works well with occupancy sensors and daylight sensors because their life span isn't affected by frequent switching. The cost of LED lights has decreased substantially in the last two years.

Several years from now, the most commonly sold lights will be LED. Fluorescent lights will someday become as scarce as incandescent lights will soon become.

Incandescent lights are the least energy efficient. They should always be turned off when not needed. About 90 percent of the energy used the light is given off as heat. Only 10 percent of the energy is used to produce heat. Limit the use of incandescent lights during the summer cooling season. This will keep the room cooler and save on air conditioning costs.

Halogen lights are a type of incandescent lighting. They are more energy efficient than traditional incandescent bulbs but they still use more energy than CFL and LED. Halogen bulbs use about 75 percent of the energy of an incandescent bulb. Halogen lights last up to three times longer than traditional incandescent bulbs.

They can be used with dimmers and come in a wide range of shapes and colors.

CFL (compact fluorescent lights) use about 25 percent of the energy of the traditional incandescent bulbs. CFLs have improved significantly since they were first introduced about 12 years ago. CFLs can be purchased with the same brightness and colors as traditional incandescent bulbs. Some CFLs are encased to provide a similar shape to traditional incandescent bulbs. A CFL's life expectancy can be shortened by the number of times it's turned off and on.

Since CFLs are very energy efficient, prolonging the bulb's life is more important than turning it off for a short period of time.

To save energy and prolong the life of a CFL follow these guidelines. Leave the light on if you will be out of the room less than 15 minutes.

Turn the light off if you will be out of the room more than 15 minutes.

elementary school, close to Halloween we'd celebrate the "Monster Mash" at school where all the classrooms were converted into fall-themed games. There was plenty of candy and prizes, but the best part was the art classroom was converted into a haunted house, complete with fake cobwebs and strobe lights. It was awesome! Every year, the week of "Monster Mash" they'd play that classic 1960s tune. By the time Friday rolled around, we had heard that song at least five times and were thoroughly psyched.

When I smell burning wood in the fall, I always think about camping. We didn't have much money growing up, so our vacations were always camping. I didn't mind it though; I loved camping. The crackle of the campfire and s'mores were always my favorite. A million memories come to mind when I think of campfires. I remember the time we were camping in the Great Smokey Mountains in Tennessee for the week, and my mother was sick with a terrible toothache. We packed up our stuff in the middle of the night and made the four hour trip back home so mom could see a dentist in the morning. After she saw the dentist and began to feel much better she felt guilty for "ruining our vacation."

The next afternoon, we made the four hour drive back and setup at our same camping spot without missing a beat.

This time of year always makes me think of my brother, Brad. We always loved Halloween and anything Halloween themed. We'd stay up late watching old Alfred Hitchcock and Vincent Price movies and "Night of the Living Dead." My brother would chase me around the house with a blanket over his head shouting, "They're coming to get you, Barbara." It was our tradition to do something Halloween themed together every year, whether it was going to a haunted house or seeing the latest scary movie at the theater. Even though we're both married and live in different states, I'm proud to say that we still haven't grown lax in that tradition.

Sometimes people look at me strangely when I smell things and say, "that smells like fall." I assure you fall does have a smell. If fall had a signature scent, it'd be the spiced apple cider Mom makes in a Crockpot. The whole house would be filled with the smell of apples, cinnamon and nutmeg.

She was always a firm believer in switching out her candles and wall plug-ins by the season. Even the hand towels in the bathrooms were switched out with fall themed ones that were embroidered with candy corn and bats. It was all the little touches that I didn't really take much notice of at the time but looking back are all the things that make home, home.

I hope that fall always floods my nose with different smells and fills my mind with pleasant childhood memories.

Councilman suggests redrawing city lines

Geohegan objects to new stormwater rules

By Shelley Spillman
News staff

In a 4-2 vote, Lawrenceburg City Council approved the second reading of 2014 real and personal property taxes Tuesday of last week.

The city's real estate property taxes were set from $1.90 per $1,000 of assessed valuation to $1.95, which is expected to produce $1,050,339 in revenue. The personal property tax rates were set from $2.29 per $1,000 assessed valuation to $3.07, which is expected to produce $80,985 in revenue.

Voting in favor of the tax rate increases were city council members Sandy Goodlett, Ken Evans and George Geoghegan and Steven Rucker. Voting against the increases were council members Paul Thomas Vaughn and Bobby Durr.

City council also conducted the first reading of the MS4 Stormwater Ordinance with all of the council members voting to approve the ordinance with the exception of Geohegan.

Geohegan expressed his distaste of the city being forced to participate and shoulder the financial burden of MS4 Program. Geohegan asked if it was possible to reassess city boundaries to be under the 10,000 resident threshold that required the city to participate in the program.

Goodlett explained that "it doesn't work that way." The city can't retroactively redraw city boundaries. Once it meets that population mark, participation is mandatory.

Geohegan said he wanted the ordinance language to be changed to reflect that the city was required to pass and comply with the MS4s and it was not its doing.

In 2010, U.S. Census data revealed that Lawrenceburg had more than 10,000 residents, placing it within Phase II of the Environmental Protection Agency's Municipal Separate Storm Sewer Systems (MS4s) program to prevent harmful pollutants from being washed or dumped into stormwater drains.

In 2011, the city was issued a letter, letting city officials know they would soon be expected to comply with the MS4 standards since the city reached the 10,000 population threshold.

Since then, Tom Bond, city code enforcement, has taken on the responsibility of MS4 coordinator. Bond has worked with CDP Engineers Inc. for educational opportunities to learn more about MS4 compliance.

Bond said the city has mapped and identified all storm sewers with special computer software, street sweeping to reduce waste entering the storm drains and passed out educational material to the public.

Another facet of the stormwater compliance is for the city to create an ordinance that details construction site runoff requirements for anyone who disturbs at least an acre of land, post-construction management, Bond's enforcement authority and the illicit discharge of items in the stormwater drains.

If the city did not pass a stormwater ordinance before 2015, they would in violation of the EPA's MS4 Program, which could mean hefty fees.

OBITUARIES

BETTY BAILEY COTTON, 83

Betty Bailey Cotton, 83, widow of Thomas Dudley Cotton Sr., passed away unexpectedly on Saturday, Sept. 20, 2014. Born in Anderson County, Betty was the daughter of the late J.T. and Marjorie Catlett Bailey.

She attended Kavanaugh High School and was a 1950 graduate of Anderson High School. Betty was a lifelong resident of the Alton community and was an active and involved member of Alton Christian Church. She was a member of Eastern Star Hamilton Chapter 293, and a former member of the Alton Homemakers Club. She loved traveling, spending time with family and friends and was a wonderful cook and candy maker and shared her talents generously.

Betty was preceded in death by her first husband, Robert Gayle Hoskins.

She is survived by a daughter, Gwyn (Larry Souder) Hoskins, Georgetown, and two sons, Kelly (Joy) Hoskins, Lawrenceburg, and Dudley (Alicia Sells) Cotton, Louisville; a sister Nancy (John) Allen, Lawrenceburg; a brother, Jim (Donna) Bailey, Howe, Texas; sisters-in-law, Margaret (Bud) Armstrong and Beverly Cotton, Lawrenceburg and many nieces and nephews. She was lovingly known as Mimi to her five grandchildren, Leah Settle, Brad (Amber) Boyd, Jessica Hoskins, all of Frankfort, Zach (Lindsay) Boyd, Bowling Green, and Jennifer Gayle Hoskins, Nashville, Tennessee.

A memorial service will be held at the Alton Christian Church on Thursday, Sept. 25 at 2 p.m. with Bro. Noal Cotton Jr. officiating. A celebration of life reception will follow the service at the church.

In lieu of flowers, contributions may be made to the Alton Christian Church Building Fund, 1686 Old Frankfort Rd., Lawrenceburg, KY 40342.

Services arranged by Ritchie & Peach Funeral Home.

Too many cats, not enough space

Humane Society takes in 30 felines in one day

By Shelley Spellman
News staff

Cat cages at the Anderson Humane Society are filled with two and sometimes as many as four cats. Currently, there are 33 cats housed at the humane society, about 40 cats in foster homes and 28 at animal control. The agency was overrun with cats two weeks ago when 30 cats were brought in one day. Being a small facility, the humane society can't take on the influx of cats alone.

Donna Callahan, the agency's director, said that June and July are peak kitten season when more cats arrive, but this year, the agency has been getting as many cats in September as it gets in the summertime.

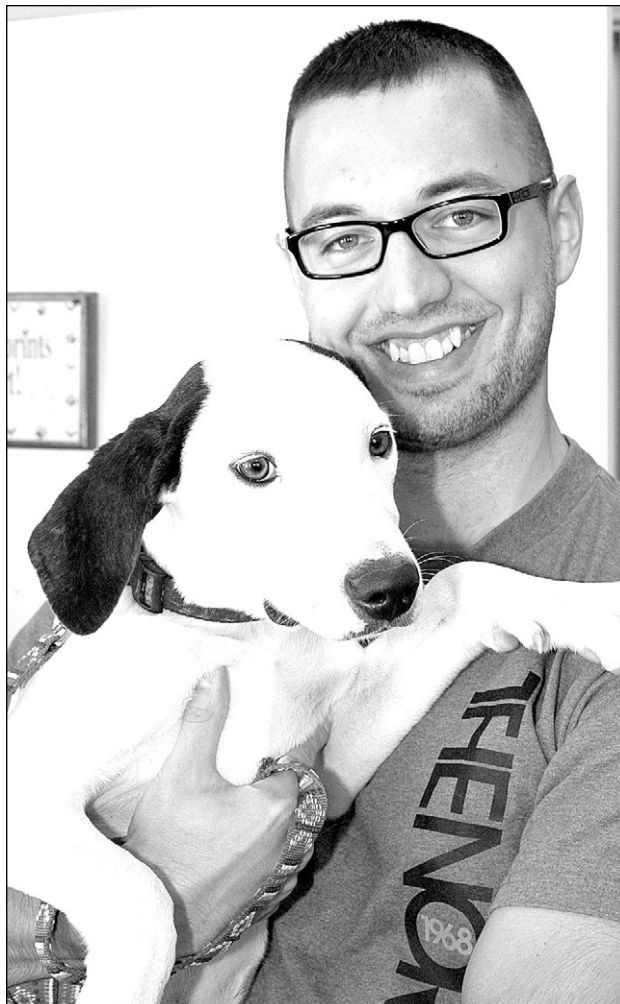

Callahan said overcrowding is largely due to pet owners not spaying or neutering.

Approximately 7.6 million companion animals enter animal shelters nationwide every year. Of those, approximately 3.9 million are dogs and 3.4 million are cats, according to the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (ASPCA).

Of all those animals received by shelters, typically only 10 percent have been spayed or neutered, according to ASPCA.

"Since we provide low cost spay and neuter vouchers no matter an individual's income, there's no reason why pets cannot get fixed," said Callahan.

Callahan said she estimates the agency spends at least $100 to get cats in its care properly vac-

Finding homes for dogs is also a challenge for the Anderson Humane Society. Above, Mike Curry decides to add Sissy to his family on Friday afternoon. He said he was won over by Sissy's friendly and energetic personality.

inated alone.

According to dosomething.org, a social activism site, the main reason animals come to shelters is because owners give them up or animal control finds them on the street.

Callahan said the Anderson Humane Society usually gets at least two owner surrendered pets a week.

The agency has only two full-time employed staff members; the rest are volunteers. Megan Smith has been an employee since July. She said she was not working on the Saturday when 30 cats were brought in but was shocked to hear about it.

Though working with the humane society has its challenges, Smith said she loves being able to provide hands-on help to get animals adopted into their forever homes.

"Sometimes it's bitter-sweet though because there are ones you grow to love, and you know you will miss them," she said.

Callahan has been working with the local Humane Society since 1978, and it's very much a labor of love for her. She said the main goal of the humane society is to be mindful of the welfare of all animals in county and educate pet owners on how to responsible pet owners.

For more information about the humane society or adoptable pets, visit www.andersonhumane.org or call 839-8339. Look for the Anderson Humane Society's booth at the Burgoon Festival this weekend.

SISTER ACT

Lawrenceburg's Maggard promoted, swears in sister on same day

Furnished by the Kentucky National Guard

FRANKFORT — When the Kentucky National Guard describes itself as a family organization, it has the proof to back it up. Chief Warrant Officer Jennifer Maggard's story is a prime example.

September 12 will remain a special date for the family as Lawrenceburg resident Maggard was promoted to chief warrant officer three in front of friends and family, just before she swore her younger sister Logan Green into the Kentucky Guard.

"I am very proud to have my sister serving with me in uniform," said Maggard. "She has always been an enthusiastic determined young lady, not letting anyone tell her she couldn't do something. She moved to Florida when she was 13, so I have missed a lot of the special events in her life. I hope now I can be of more support to her and watch her grow into a young leader for the Kentucky Guard as well as in life."

"Growing up I watched my sister do so much in the Kentucky Guard," said Green. "I watched her go to flight school and do so many other things, so I look forward to seeing where my career can take me, what I can do and the things I can do to make myself better through the Kentucky Guard."

Green is a freshman at the University of Kentucky, where she said Maggard. "Joined now by my husband who served, my brother and now sister who both serve, we are a true Guard family and happy to call the Kentucky National Guard home."

The brother of the family, Spc. Doug Green, works as an aviation mechanic with Bravo Company, 2nd Battalion, 147th Aviation in Frankfort. He thinks it's an honor for the siblings to be able to represent the military as well as they can as family.

"I am very proud to be the older brother of these two," Doug said. "It's great that Logan was able to transfer up here and that all three of us are together here now in the Guard."

"On of them already outranks me, and in a few years the other will as well," he said. "You have to be proud of that."

Chief Warrant Officer Dean Stoops, Kentucky's command chief warrant officer, was on hand to help promote Maggard and to welcome her sister. Stoops mentored Maggard as a young warrant officer and helped guide her into flight school. He also started his own career in artillery, like Green, and said he feels a kinship with the family.

"Joined now by my husband who served, my brother and now sister who both serve, we are a true Guard family and happy to call the Kentucky National Guard home."

plans to major in the medical field. She's also joined the college's Army ROTC program. She will simultaneously serve in the Kentucky Guard as a multiple-launch rocket system specialist as she works toward becoming an Army officer after graduation.

Maggard has served in the Kentucky Guard since 1998, enlisting as a junior in high school, which Green did as well. Maggard currently works as a resource manager for the Recruiting and Retention command. She is also married to former Guardsman Freddie Maggard, who serves as the Kentucky Guard's Community Relations Liaison.

"When I first joined the Guard I was just a family member who served in the Guard,"

Pfc. Logan Green is sworn into the Kentucky National Guard by her sister, Chief Warrant Officer Jennifer Maggard, during a ceremony in Frankfort. Green transferred for the Florida National Guard and will attend the University of Kentucky.

"It's great to be able to participate not only in an official ceremony such as this, but one that is such a family affair and in particular, one that the Guard is such a big part of it," said Stoops.

Green said the day began a new chapter of her relationship with her sister, and recalled times spent apart.

"We didn't grow up together, but we're still very close and it's nice to know that we can look forward to the memories we're going to make now that I'm closer. I think the connection I have with my brother and sister will just get a lot closer and stronger."

"Some of my greatest memories I have with my sister is going to get our nails done and hanging out and being sisters and having that one-on-one time that we didn't always have when we were growing up."

Maggard said she look forward to the day when she has to salute her little sister, but until then she wants her to learn from Maggard's experiences and build upon the basic principles of family.

"This is her career and it will be what she makes of it; she can be as successful or unsuccessful as she wants to be. Know that someone is always watching even when she thinks they are not. Most importantly to always believe in herself and know she is surrounded by family and friends who believe in her, support her, are proud of her and love her."

Logan remembered that she wanted to enlist in the military since she was 4 years old, after watching her sister leave for basic training. Both sisters recalled the Disney movie "Mulan" and how it had an underlying theme of their relationship. Appropriate that a story of a strong, independent and self-sufficient girl who goes on to become a warrior is a favorite of the two.

Both shared memorable stories of seeing each other graduate from different Army schools, but this day will certainly rank high on their lists for years to come.

"I was excited that the timeline worked out that I could be to watch my sister's big moment and be a part of it for her," said Logan. "And excited about my other sister coming up and my brother's here, so all four of us are together again."

"My own family got to introduce me to the larger family of the Kentucky National Guard. It's such a great support system and I'm so glad to be a part of it now."

School board votes to pay $110, 596 insurance bill

By Shelley Spillman
News staff

Fiscal matters were the primary topic of discussion at the Anderson County Board of Education meeting Sept. 8.

Though Anderson County Schools no longer participates in Kentucky School Boards Insurance Trust, which offered low cost, risk pool insurance to Kentucky school districts. Statewide school districts that participated in the program are required to make up for the KSBIT's more than $50 million deficit.

KSBIT was established in 1978, and the insurance pool serviced a majority of Kentucky's 174 school districts with workmen's compensation and property and liability insurance at some point.

As insurance became more competitive, KSBIT struggled to stay afloat.

School districts were notified last year about KSBIT's money woes, and each school district was individually assessed for their participation to make up for the deficit. Fayette County Schools was one the school districts hit the hardest with a $2 million assessment to pay back.

The Anderson County Schools portion to pay back is $110, 596.

"It is disappointing that KSBIT put school districts in this position. In good faith we paid KSBIT our insurance premiums for workers comp for the years they provided service. We expected those payments to cover our expenses," said Anderson County Schools Superintendent Sheila Mitchell. "We have not used them for years. Unfortunately, there were management issues that were not recoverable and that has now negatively impacted school districts in Kentucky. It has been litigated and determined that we will all share the burden. We are not happy about this decision, but there appears to be no recourse."

The school board had three options to pay it off:

- A six-year payment with zero interest where the first payment would be $27,649 for the first payment and $13,800 for the remaining payments.
- A 10-year payment for $13,600 that would cost $26,000 through debt services.

- A 15-year payment for $10,700 a year that would bring the total debt services cost to $50,000.

The school board took the advice of Nick Clark, Anderson County School finance officer, and unanimously decided to take the six-year payment option to minimize the increased cost with interest.

Roger McDowell, board of education vice chairman, said he thought KSIBT assessments were completely unfair.

"When other businesses fail, they can't go back and retroactively charge people," said McDowell.

In other news, the school board also approved a resolution for a tax and revenue anticipated note that allows the school board to "borrow for the purpose of meeting current general fund expenses." The note cannot exceed $750,000.

Mitchell said this is standard protocol and this is the first time since she was been superintendent that they have called for tax and revenue note.

"This year is different in that our fund balance is less than it's been in the past. We have a large bond payment that is due, before we receive our tax revenue in November," said Clark. "Our plan is not to use this, but I wanted to be proactive."

Simulation gives high school students a crash course in budgeting

By Shelley Spillman
News staff

Anderson County High School students were given a "Reality Check" on Thursday morning. The simulation was designed to give students an idea of real life expenses and budgeting.

Around 13 booths were assembled in the high school gym to allow students to purchase necessities based on their income. Several businesses and residents assisted in the Reality Check simulation. Some of the booths were transportation, utilities, insurance, health, communication, housing, Uncle Sam and crystal ball.

Students quickly learned that living within your means could be difficult.

Serrah Kurtz, a junior at the high school, selected a career in counseling.

"I only make $2,500, and now I barely have any money," Kurtz said.

The clothing booth allowed students to purchase clothing for their family from $60 to $300 a month.

Aaron Steele, a junior at the high school, picked a career as a stockbroker, and realized he had to look the part. The designer clothes he selected cost $300 a month.

Steele said he enjoyed the Reality Check simulation because of its real life applications.

"We're preparing for the future and what we will have to spend," he said.

Students also got a first-hand experience on the cost of providing for a family. Kate Tamara Smith, a sales representative for The Anderson News, helps Katie Crabtree, left, and Ashley Thompson, both juniors at the high school, to budget for a phone plan at the communications booth.

Webb, a junior at the high school, picked a career as an elementary teacher with two children. Her budget only allowed for clothing shopping at Walmart.

"You really have to save money, and keep track of how much you spend," said Webb.

Even the best at budgeting could be thrown for a loop at the crystal ball booth, where students selected a card with a variety of scenarios from winning the lottery to paying a speeding ticket.

"These are the lovely unexpected expenses your mom gets every month," said Deputy Paul Blackhurst of the Anderson County Sheriff's Office to a student.

Teagan Lilly, a junior at the high school, received a card informing her she had to pay $100 for childcare.

Lilly, who selected a career as an elementary teacher, said she started with $3,000 and had already spent $1,900 on a cell phone plan and a car.

"I learned you need to spend your money wisely and get the best but cheapest stuff possible," she said.

Heather Adams, Anderson County High School family and consumer science teacher, said they have conducted the Reality Check simulation for the past two years.

"Kids don't get the opportunity to see what real life is like. They pick their career and make choices at each booth," she said. "It's an eye opener."

In addition to Reality

Check, students participated in resume building activities in mock interviews conducted by former high school staff and community members.

Randy Adams, teacher at the high school, said Thursday's activities were all college and career focused.

"We want to get the kids to think beyond now and be more prepared for the future," he said.

Second annual community service day teaches important values

From staff reports

Around 350 Anderson County High School freshmen were seen around town performing community service last Thursday.

Small groups were found lending helping hands at the county park, the American Legion Park, the Anderson Humane Society, Friends of the Anderson Public Library building, Anderson County Sheriff's Office's upcoming haunted house and the Anderson County Senior Citizens' building, to name a few.

Students picked up garbage at the American Legion Park and pulled weeds at the Healing Field. Students were also seen helping the Friends of the Anderson Public Library organizing and shelving books for an upcoming book sale.

Danyelle Fitzpatrick, freshman at the high school, said she enjoyed spending her morning helping others.

Lawrenceburg resident LouKetta Woods said she was cleaning the grave of her late husband Michael when she saw a school bus pull into Lawrenceburg Cemetery.

"At first I wondered why children from the school were out there," Woods said. "When I found out I thought this is awesome."

"We're doing this to help the citizens of Lawrenceburg," said freshman Karlee Simmons, who was with a group of about 50 of her classmates at the cemetery, most proudly wearing their #teamAC T-shirts.

"We're cleaning the tombstones to make them look presentable," freshman Kennedy Blakeman added.

"And we're doing it for families of people who can't come out and do it," chimed in fellow freshman KatieLynn Conyers.

"We're just out here enjoying helping the community," said Dylan Bast, who was teamed up with classmates R.J. Boies, Jacob Campbell and Dakota Hays, who said they were also gaining some historical perspective while cleaning.

"I'm enjoying trying to find the oldest tombstone," Hays said, adding that, so far, the oldest they'd found was from 1795.

Marla Seraji, Anderson County High School media specialist, said she thought it was funny how many students said they didn't read much, and yet most of the students ended up going home with at least one book.

"It's important for students to give back and do something for the community," said Saraji.

Anderson County Schools Superintendent Sheila Mitchell agreed that the annual day of community service is beneficial for students.

"We are blessed with a community who is very supportive of our school district and educating our children," she said. "Teaching the importance of community service is good for our students. Our mission statement includes preparing our students to act as responsible citizens; teaching them to give back is a great way to show them the importance of working together as a team for our community."

"It was great to see our students working to complete various service projects with the senior citizen center, humane society and city and county agencies. This is our second year of working with our community partners. It is organized at ACHS with the help of our Youth Service Center."

Proudly serving Lawrenceburg since 1885

Farmers Bank & Capital Trust dedicated to community service

The Anderson County branches of Farmers Bank & Capital Trust Co. have a history going back to 1885 when Lawrenceburg National Bank opened for business.

A hundred years later, the bank was purchased by Frankfort's Farmers Bank. LNB, as it would later be called, continued to operate independently until 2010 when it and Farmers merged. Though this consolidation meant a name change, the bank's employees remain committed to community involvement and attention to customer needs.

At the Main Street Office, Randy Leet, Bob Baughman, Dale Taulbee and Libby Goodlett are happy to discuss personal or business financing needs.

Everyone needs a checking and savings accounts; they are the backbone of financial stability. Main Street Branch Manager Barbie Markwell along with Customer Service Representatives Carole Carlton, Courtney Williams and Jeaneane Ball will explain the benefits of our accounts helping you to select the one which best suits you or your business. If you visit the West Park Branch, Manager Carol Floyd and her friendly branch staff will provide assistance with any bank product. The bank also has a Trust Department to help with investments, trust services and retirement planning.

Service to communities is at the heart of Farmers Bank. Bank officials are elated that once again, Farmers Bank was voted Best Bank and Best Customer Service in Anderson County by the readers of The Anderson News. Employees of Farmers Bank participate in many civic and local school projects. Farmers Bank is proud to sponsor Summer Concerts on Lawrenceburg Green. This year the Main Branch employees will once again cook up some fine burgoo - join us on Sept. 27 for this year's Burgoo Cookoff. The bank has also sponsored the Civil War reenactment, which educated 800 area school children.

Some of the events the bank helps include: The Chamber of Commerce Ambassador program, Anderson County volunteers at the State Fair and Back to School Bash. It participates in the Citizen of the Month program in local schools where outstanding students are recognized and given a gift from the bank. Once a quarter the bank's West Park employees pack over 100 bags for the Backpack Buddies; snacks given at school on Friday to children likely to be hungry on the weekends. The bank is proud to have a very active Relay for Life Team that raises money throughout the year to support the American Cancer Society. It has also supported the American Diabetes Association, The American Legion, Anderson County Schools, Lions Club, Burgoo Festival and many other local efforts. Farmers Bank has a solid reputation for strength and community service. Farmers employees know when Anderson County prospers, we all prosper.

The bank invites you to follow it on Twitter or Facebook.

President's notebook

To the state fair volunteers, businesses and citizens of Anderson County, first of all thank you for making our Anderson county booth at the fair huge success. It could not have happened had it not been for such a wonderful committee and 118 dedicated volunteers such as you.

It only took walking through Pride of the Counties to realize that Anderson County was well represented and needed to be a part of that event. We passed on a lot of information about Anderson County from visiting to making residency in this wonderful community that we are so privileged to be a part of.

Sanderson, Lewis win youth contest

From staff reports

Anderson County Farm Bureau held its Outstanding Youth and Variety Contest on Sept. 9 at Anderson County High School Auditorium. There were eight contestants in the OFBY Contest, two males and six females. The Outstanding Youth Contest is judged on a five-minute person interview and a two-minute speech on agriculture or Farm Bureau. Winners were awarded $100 and runner-ups $75. Each participant or act won $25.

The winning outstanding male youth was Adam Sanderson who goes on to the district contest, Nov. 6th in Shelby County. Runner up was Casey Meredith.

In the female OFBY, we had six females participate. First place went to McKenna Lewis and runner-up was Kelby Tucker.

In the variety contest, there were eight outstanding acts. The purpose of the variety contest is to recognize young people and give them an opportunity to perform before audiences to gain valuable experience in the talent and entertainment field.

The variety show winner was McKenna Lewis, singing "One Hundred Easy Ways," from Wonderful Town. Lewis will go on to district.

Quetzal and Rio Velasco were the two runner-ups. The two performed a dance number, "Where Ballet meets Tap," from the music Swan Lake and Pick Yourself Up.

Kentucky Farm Bureau is a grassroots organization that began in 1919 to represent the interests of its member-families through programs and supporting efforts. Anderson County Farm Bureau offers benefits and services to local residents and has established a reputation as an effective advocate for its local members. Among the benefits of membership are the extensive insurance and financial services available through Kentucky Farm Bureau Insurance Cos., the largest property-and-casualty insurer in Kentucky.

Husbands should treat wives as gifts from God

The National Football League is under fire in regards to the epidemic of domestic violence within its ranks; a culture that has gone on for some time and yet little, if anything, was being done about it. But once a video, or two, goes viral, their hand is forced and now the NFL must deal with the issue. It is sad that it has got to this point.

Brian Owens
Faith columnist

But the NFL is not the only place where domestic violence resides. According to the National Coalition Against Domestic Violence, nearly 43 million women in the United States have experienced "rape, physical violence, and/or stalking by an intimate partner in their lifetime," and some 30 percent of women in the United States have been "slapped, pushed, or shoved by an intimate partner in their lifetime." The statistics are sobering; the details are chilling.

The thought of a man striking a woman is sickening on so many levels, not the least spiritually. Domestic violence strikes at the heart of how God created men and women. Both, although created different in form and function, are nonetheless equal in their essence (Genesis 1:27).

While I know that many cases of domestic violence involved unmarried couples, I want to speak a word to the husbands out there.

God has called us to love and care for our wives, not mistreat them, whether that is physically, emotionally, verbally or sexually. Ephesians 5:25 commands us to love our wives as Christ loved the Church.

Think about those words: "as Christ loved the church and gave himself up for her." That is a high and lofty imperative that has been issued to us.

In what ways do we show our wives the love of Jesus? We do so by loving them sacrificially. Take, for example, Jesus' actions in John 13, where we read of his washing the disciple's feet in the upper room not too long before his arrest and subsequent crucifixion. Unlike the Lord's Supper, which he instituted just moments earlier, here he was not giving another ordinance but rather he was giving an example of how we are to show love to each other in a tangible way - by meeting a basic need. In this case, he took on the role of a lowly servant and did a menial task.

Men, we are called to love our wives like this. We often emphasize Ephesians 5:22 and the expectation of the wife to submit to her husband's leadership role and neglect what I think is a far weightier matter.

God has called us to love our wives in a way that puts their needs before our own and love her in a way that, at times, may seem inconvenient and downright humbling.

This is a far cry from slapping our wives, pushing them around or worse. Shame on any man, let alone a man who claims to know Jesus, who treats his wife, or girlfriend, with the disrespect we have read in the news lately. Our wives are gifts from God and we should treat them as such.

Whether you are an NFL football player or a blue-collar factory worker, you have no right whatsoever to mistreat your wife. You do, however, have an obligation to love and cherish her and to protect her from harm.

A real man doesn't stand to intimidate; he bows to serve. And sometimes that means washing feet, or dishes, or even clothes.

Men, I hope you get the point. It's basically this: don't scare your wife; serve your wife. That's what a real man of strength does.

Brian T. Owens is associate pastor with youth and children emphasis at Farmdale Baptist Church.

Revival will be from Sept. 29-Oct. 3. There will be special singing each night beginning at 6:30 p.m. and preaching starting at 7 p.m.

Come out for a great time of fellowship and worship.

Glensboro Christian Church to celebrate 162nd birthday

Glensboro Christian Church will celebrate its birthday with revival/homecoming services from Oct. 5-Oct. 8. The evangelist will be Brother Hank Bowman from Lawrenceburg.

Services begin on Oct. 5 with Sunday school at 10 a.m. and worship service at 10:45 a.m. Special music will be provided by Daughters of the King followed by a potluck fellowship meal. Services will resume after lunch with more special music and preaching. There will not be an evening worship service.

Monday night, Oct. 6, through Wednesday, Oct. 8, service will begin with special music each night at 6:30 p.m. and preaching will start at 7 p.m.

Special music will be provided by the Masters Quartet on Monday, Hims of Praise on Tuesday and the Chuck Bowman Band on Wednesday. A special invitation is extended to all former pastors and their families.

The Glensboro Christian Church congregation invites guests to a week of many blessings, good preaching, food, music and fellowship. For more information, contact Senior Minister Jody Stamper 839-6541 or Associate Minister Matt Spaulding at 839-4391.

Fall Festival coming soon

The Open Bible Church and Trinity Church of God will sponsor a fall festival 11 a.m. - 9 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 11 at the Lawrenceburg Green.

There will be all kinds of food, fun, games and music.

For more information, contact the Open Bible Church at 839-5922.

ADULTERERS AND MARRIAGE

"Whosoever shall put away his wife, saving for the cause of fornication, causeth her to commit adultery; and whosoever shall marry her that is divorced committeth adultery" (Matthew 5:32).

"Whosoever shall put away his wife, except it be for fornication, and shall marry another, committeth adultery: and whoso marrieth her which is put away doth commit adultery" (Matthew 19:9).

"For the woman who has a husband is bound by the law to her husband as long as he lives. But if the husband dies, she is released from the law of her husband. So then if, while her husband lives, she marries another man, she will be called an adulteress; but if her husband dies, she is free from that law, so that she is no adulteress, though she has married another man" (Romans 7:2-3).

The above passages teach that two people joined by God in marriage are bound for LIFE. The only exception is that an innocent partner, may put away (divorce) a mate guilty of fornication and then remarry. For those who have been divorced without the proper cause, you are in adultery as long as you continue in that relationship. No adulterer can enter heaven (Gal. 5:19-21)!

Anderson County golfer Zachary Toles poses with his trophies for winning the CKBC Tournament and being named to the All-CKBC team.

Toles tops conference

By John Herndon

Entering the final week of the 2014 season, the Anderson County boys' golf team appears to be hitting its stride at the right time.

The Bearcats will play in the Region 4 Tournament on Tuesday, Sept. 30 at Connemara Golf Course in Nicholasville.

Saturday, the Bearcats placed third in the Central Kentucky Bluegrass Conference Tournament, held at Dix River Country Club, near Stanford. As a team, Anderson finished behind Franklin County and Scott, Individually, Anderson junior Zachary Toles might have put together the best round of his career, turning in a 3-under 68 to earn individual medalist honors for the tournament.

"Overall, a good day that was really close to being great," Anderson coach Jim Beward said. "We shot 311, taking both an 83 and an 84. Of course, Zachary's career day helped tremendously. He played the best and smartest round of his career to this point."

Toles burned the course and was actually six under after 13 holes. "He kept it together after realizing what he was doing," Beward said.

Toles, who was named first team all-conference, earned Anderson's third individual tournament win this year. As a team, it was Anderson's fifth Top 5 finish of the season.

Anderson's Jordan Morgan turned in a 76 and was named to the all-conference second team.

"Morgan played better than the score indicated," Beward said. "He had no putting luck."

Earlier in the week, the Bearcats went 3-0 in dual matches, defeating Woodford County, Spencer County and Mercer County.

Last Monday, the Bearcats scored a 156-181 win over the par 35 front nine at Wild Turkey Trace. Morgan led the Bearcats with a 35.

Wednesday, the Bearcats overcame a sloppy day on front nine of the home course at Wild Turkey Trace to post a 162-180 win over Spencer County. Brothers, who was honored, along with Hayden Bright, in Senior Night festivities before the match, shot a 39 for the Bearcats.

Thursday, the Bearcats won over Mercer County, 152-159, at Bright Leaf Golf Resort in Harrodsburg.

"It was a close match down to the last group," Beward said. "Morgan and Toles both eagled the par-5 ninth hole. Toles had birdied the par-3 eighth, so the No. 1 and No. 2 went five under for the last two holes."

Morgan went two under at 34 while Toles carded a 36 to lead the Bearcats.

Bearcats looking for repeat state trip

Anderson, which won a playoff for the second team spot from the region last year, can expect a dogfight for the state tournament spots.

"The region is going to be a wide open affair," Beward said, "We have a bunch of tightly-packed teams - West Jessamine, Adair County, Taylor County and Anderson Count have to be considered at the top of a number of teams."

Bearcats limit Mercer to 20 yards, answer questions in 36-0 rout

By John Herndon

HARRODSBURG - Anderson County football is doing just fine, thank you.

The Bearcats answered some of the questions about their status as pre-season district favorite and regional contender with a resounding 36-0 thrashing of host Mercer County Friday night.

Frankly, a game that Anderson dominated from the time the team bus crossed the county line could have been even worse. The Bearcats pounded their neighbors with a pair of short touchdown drives in the first quarter and stifled the Mercer attack to the tune of 20 offensive yards.

"I thought we would have a big game, but I never thought we would beat them this bad," said Anderson senior running back Chris Toomey, who scored three touchdowns.

His coach, Mark Peach, was just as surprised by the final score but was beaming when thinking about the dominating performance he had just seen after a two consecutive defeats.

"We really challenged the kids and we put in the work this week," Peach said. "My hat is off to (Anderson defensive coordinator Duane) Hammons and all of the changes he made. This game was a total team effort."

Indeed.

The Titans earned two first downs and had a net offensive output of minus-one yard through the first three quarters.

After Toomey emerged from a cluster of Mercer defenders and scooted 19 yards for his third touchdown of the night, the Bearcats converted on a pass from Zachary Carmichael to Dusty Puckett to set the final score and mercifully start a running clock for the final 16:17.

It was not supposed to be this way.

"No. We had seen them play on film," Anderson senior Brayden Russell said when asked if he envisioned such a rout. "We had a good game plan and went to work."

Anderson had come in with questions about its ability to stop a quality opponent after giving up 100 points and almost 1,100 yards in its previous two games. While few questioned whether the Bearcats were good, how good was a concern.

Meanwhile, Mercer had come in as perhaps the best 1-3 team in Kentucky. The Titans three losses had been to teams with a combined 11-1 mark. Even though Mercer was without four injured starters, the Bearcats had been wary due to Mercer's trio of threats in the Lady Bearcats get back to old way, take title of own tourney

By John Herndon
Sports Editor

Fun was back in style for Anderson County volleyball over the weekend.

The Lady Bearcats rolled to the championship of their own tournament, the Anderson County Volley Smash, winning all six matches, most of them convincingly.

Anderson improved to 15-5 on the season and underscored the perception that the Lady Bearcats could be a dark horse candidate in the Eighth Region title chase next month.

It was largely about getting back to simply having fun. The Lady Bearcats laughed on the court. They acted silly on the bench.

And when the tournament ended late Saturday afternoon, had the most fun when they hoisted the big trophy for winning the championship.

"The girls got back to the way we had been playing, with a lot of enthusiasm and playing for each

Lady Bearcats shoot down Pioneers

By John Herndon
Sports Editor

Somehow, Anderson County found an offense Saturday.

The Lady Bearcats, who had struggled to score at times during the 2014 season, jumped to a 4-0 first half lead, then held on to beat visiting Simon Kenton, considered one of the Eighth Region's better teams, in high school soccer action.

Anderson's 4-2 victory was easily the Lady Bearcats' top showing of the season.

"This was a big win, as they beat us twice last year, including the game that ended our post-season run," said Anderson coach Jason Earnest. "They are a good team but we managed to get up on them early and hold on."

"We are trying to build confidence heading towards the post-season. We have been a bit inconsistent lately, but we have won the games that, on paper, look like we should win. But we have lost the games pretty handily against top-ranked teams.

"We need to improve that if we want to make a run at a district and regional championship."

Allie Johnson led Anderson with two goals against the Pioneers while Evan Kays added a goal and an assist. Kinzie Roberts also scored for the Lady Bearcats.

Taylor Harley, Anna Cornish and Grace Casciola added assists for the Lady Cats.

Kays took a pass from Harley, then drove it home about 10 minutes in to give the Lady Bearcats the lead they would never relinquish.

Just a few minutes later, Johnson made it 2-0 on a pass from Cornish to complete a play that began when Tate Thompson started with a play across the middle.

"I didn't think we were dominating the flow of the game," Earnest said. "It seemed to be a tough battle throughout the whole game. But things really fell in place for us in the offensive third (of the field) early."

The Lady Bearcats made it 3-0 when Roberts directed a free kick from Casciola to the net. Kays then assisted Johnson to put the Lady Bearcats on top, 4-0.

Simon Kenton got a goal back right before half and scored again with about six minutes to play.

"We probably should have scored at least two more goals in the second half where the ball hit the post or just missed," Earnest said. "Their keeper made a couple of great saves too."

"Billie Clark played very big for us in the goal as she came off her line and cut off many fast break or one-on-one chances."

Earlier in the week, the Lady Bearcats took a 5-0 thumping from South Oldham in Crestwood.

"It was their senior game and their first home game of the year," Earnest said. "They were excited and came out ready to play."

South Oldham, ranked ninth statewide, scored just 90 seconds in and the romp was on.

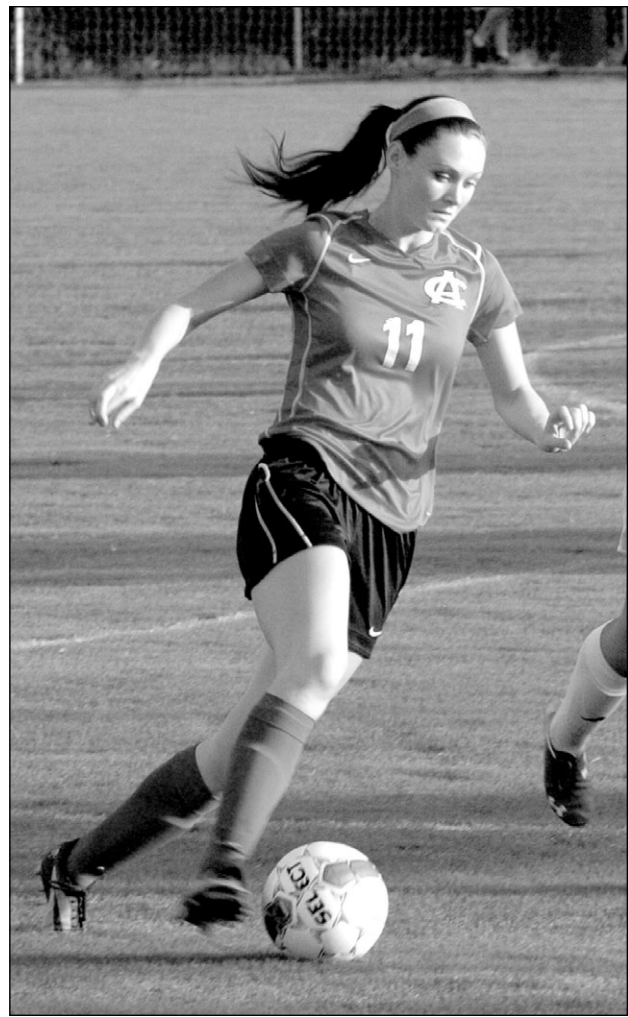

"It was not the best start we were looking for," Earnest said, "but we settled in for the next 25 minutes or so and battled."

South Oldham overcame Anderson's attempt to catch the Dragons in an offside trap late in the first half to score again.

The Dragons scored twice in a three minute span, then got another goal on a free kick that Earnest said came from 50 yards and looked like a football punt.

"It somehow just went perfectly under the crossbar and over our keeper's hands," Earnest said.

"South Oldham is very good and made us look very average. I thought we were hanging tough in the middle of the field for most cial to the team to help us win the tournament."

Hardin credited assistant coach Corey Sayre, a former Anderson head coach, with much of the change. "Mr. Motivation did a great job this week at practice, talking with the girls and getting them back to playing as one unit," Hardin said. "We had some fun on the bench, in the stands with the fans, and in the bleachers with our younger girls."

"After each point, the girls did something different: Bowling and acting like pins, a wild golfer hitting someone with a ball, acting like they are on a roller coaster, shooting a bow and arrow and falling down. Our parents and even our principal, Chris Glass, participated in that one."

"It was just a fun time."

The Lady Bearcats lost just one set in six matches, dropping the first one to LaRue County Saturday morning. Anderson came back to win the second and then took the tie-breaker, 15-12, over the Lady Hawks. The final point was one worthy of being a match point, as the teams exchanged over 10 volleys before Anderson put the match away.

The Lady Bearcats defeated Taylor County twice, once in pool play and once in the championship match, but Anderson won convincingly both times. Anderson also defeated Spencer County, Bardstown and Franklin County to win the tournament.

Hardin said no all-tournament team was selected. "I would have put the entire team on it if we did."

Earlier in the week, the Lady Bearcats suffered a 3-0 loss at Washington County, a team that was 17-5 after competing in the All-A State Tournament over the weekend. Hardin said the Commanderettes are very good but his team did not help its own cause.

"We played very bad," he said. "We didn't get good passes so we couldn't use our front row to hit the ball. We didn't have a very good attack for the night."

Hardin added that his team had no answer for Washington's outside hitters.

"They simply out-hustled us," he said. "They wanted it more."

"Our girls came out very slow and never could get a rhythm going. Our passes didn't reach our setter and we settled for several free balls and down balls (a back row swing). We had a lot of frustration on our faces and it showed in how we played."

Thursday, the Lady Bearcats dropped the first set to Thomas Nelson, then rallied to win the next three sets on the Lady Bearcats' home court.

Hardin was unable to be at the contest and turned the team over to his assistant coaches for that match.

Bearcats open district title defense Friday

By John Herndon
Sports Editor

All the kinks had better be taken care of before Friday.

Anderson County opens Class 5A, District 6 play that night when the Bearcats travel to Montgomery County. Kickoff is set for 7:30 p.m.

Prior to the season, this one looked to be the contest that might decide who stays home and who goes on the road in the first round of the state playoffs. While Anderson is the defending district champ, Montgomery was seen as the darkhorse, capable of knocking off either the Bearcats or Franklin County, which has shared district dominance with Anderson since 2011.

That still might be the case but Montgomery has struggled, winning just one of four games in the early going while Anderson, 2-2 against a rugged straight.

The teams have one common opponent, George Rogers Clark, which Anderson shellacked in the first week of the season. Clark upset Montgomery, 31-21 two weeks ago.

Bearcats vs. Indians

When: Friday, Sept. 26, 7:30 p.m.
Where: Cunningham Stadium
Montgomery Co. High School
724 Woodford Street, Mt. Sterling
Records: Anderson Co. 2-2, Montgomery Co. 1-3
The series: First meeting, 1992.
Anderson Co. leads, 11-2
Last year: Anderson Co. 48, Montgomery Co. 20

Last week, Montgomery took a 43-7 loss at North Laurel. Montgomery's only win came against Harrison County, 48-0, in the second week of the season.

Anderson coach Mark Peach says despite Montgomery's record, his team will have to play well to notch its first district win. "It's going to be tough going on the road," he said.

The Indians are likely to air it out, with quarterback Art Walker throwing to Joe Chism, one of the better receivers in District 6.

"They threw over 50 passes against George Rogers Clark," Peach said. "They do a nice job of spreading things around. "We will have to play well to win."

Game notes

*The teams have played on-again, off-again since their first meeting in 1992. In that one, the Bearcats routed host Montgomery, 42-7, in the Recreation Bowl. Montgomery's last win in the series came in 2001.

*Anderson and Montgomery played twice in 2011. The Bearcats won in the regular season and second round of the state playoffs backfield.

*Anderson will be playing on an artificial surface for the second time this season. The Bearcats played on the turf at South Oldham.

"Coach Hammons put a great game plan together," said Russell, who plays defensive back. "We just shut them down early and knew all their plays and what they were going to call."

As the game progressed, it became apparent that Mercer's offense would be a series of three-and-outs. And as time went on, Hammons, always an emotional sort on the sideline, got even more worked up.

"I have never seen him get that excited," said sophomore middle linebacker Bryndon Labhart. "It's a good feeling to see the coaches that happy."

The computer rankings had Anderson as a slight favorite. Instead, it turned out to be a lesson in why games are played on the field, not on paper.

Anderson has now won all six games in the series, which resumed in 2009. Over that time, the Bearcats' average margin of victory has been just over 30 points and Mercer has not come within three touchdowns in that span.

Anderson now leads the series with Mercer 25-13.

The Bearcats took just eight plays to march 47 yards, all coming on the ground, on their first offensive possession. Russell capped the drive with a four-yard scoring run.

Most of all, the first drive set the tone for the evening: There was nothing fancy, nothing spectacular. It was just efficient, fundamental football.

Anderson County's Hunter Clark (43) blocks a Mercer County punt during the first quarter of Friday's game.

Anderson drove 47 yards with Ryan Martin finishing from seven yards out after Carmichael had drawn every Mercer defender in with a beautiful fake.

"That was just part of the triple option," Peach said. "We researched it in the off-season because we felt it just fit this group really well. Labhart's a really good full back and Zach is a dangerous runner. Martin and Toomey are good high school running backs. We can run it out of different sets, then you throw in Dusty (Puckett) and Brayden and those are two pretty good receivers."

The Bearcats then put things away with a 21-yard drive after Hunter Clark blocked a Dustin Baker punt. Toomey did the scoring honors from a yard out to make it 21-0.

The Bearcats left 10 points on the field, however, as Landon Curry just missed a 32-yard field goal and Mercer's Austin Sparrow intercepted a Carmichael pass in the end zone late in the first half.

Toomey added a four-yard plunge in the third quarter. He led Anderson with 77 rushing yards.

Carmichael tried just 11 passes, a season low, and the fewest number of throws since attempting 10 at Woodford County last year.

Mercer finally got some semblance of offense in the fourth quarter, but Anderson preserved the shutout when Curry recovered a fumble at the Anderson 5.

"I knew we were dominating defensively," Peach said. "Our linebackers, Labhart and Bryce (Edmondson) played well. The defensive line did such a great job."

And, Peach said, it was all about getting right mentally after a pair of losses.

"We were just trying to challenge them," Peach said of his practice-time speeches. "We talked about the group in 2010 got murdered at J-town and they came back and went to the regional championship game. The group in 2011 got killed by Bryan Station and Franklin County and got to the finals."

"Those groups just shook it off. We wanted to see if this group has the same resolve."

For 48 minutes on a September Friday night, the Bearcats did.

COLLEGE FOOTBALL ROUNDUP

How teams with players from Anderson County fared last week.

Northwestern 24, Western Illinois 7

Northwestern got in the win column with a win over Western Illinois. The Wildcats broke a 7-7 tie in the first quarter and never looked back. Anderson County High School graduate Chris Fitzpatrick is the team's long snapper for Northwestern.

Western Michigan 45, Murray State 14

Western Michigan exploded for 17 unanswered points in the second quarter to break open a tie game and set the stage for a rout. Anderson County High School graduate Bill Rose is a kicker for Murray State.

Morehead State 40, Davidson 32

Morehead picked up its first win with an impressive win at Davidson. Anderson County High School graduate Todd DeWoody is a lineman on the Morehead roster.

Centre 28, Washington & Lee 23

Centre overcame a halftime deficit to remain unbeaten on the season. Anderson County High School graduate Steven Sims was in on four tackles for the Colonels. Seth Carmichael and Tristan Ashburn play for Centre.

Campbellsville 44, Bethel 3

Anderson County High School graduate Jacob Russell completed 12-of-22 passes for 181 yards and three touchdowns as the Tigers rolled to a Mid-South Conference victory. Campbellsville is now 2-1 on the season, 1-0 in conference play.

Union 28, Univ. of the Cumberlands 27

Trailing 28-21, Cumberlands scored with a minute to go, but opted to try for two points. The attempt failed. Anderson County's Joe Rose is a freshman kicker at Cumberlands.

GIRLS' GOLF

Lady Bearcats turn in best tourney of season

By John Herndon
Sports Editor

Victories are not always seen on the scoreboard. Such was the case for the Anderson County High School girls' golf team last week.

The Lady Bearcats dropped a pair of dual matches, then finished only ninth of 16 teams in the Mercer County Invitational, held Saturday at the par 73 Danville Country Club. However, Anderson coach Robbie Hanks said the showing in the Mercer tournament was a small victory as Anderson had its best team total of the season.

The 399 total was "one of the early-season goals of a sub-400 team score before the regionals," Hanks said. Anderson junior Christina Montgomery led the Lady Cats with an 89, her best round of the season.

Cheyenne Searcy and Amy Kate Smith finished with a 97 and 102, respectively, their best individual scores of the year.

"That was, by far, the best tournament round scoring we've had this year," Hanks said. "We met several goals for this season, with one reaching a score under 400 before the region and we met that goal (at Danville)."

Earlier in the week, the Lady Bearcats dropped a 169-207 decision to Boyle County in a 9-hole match at Danville Country Club. Montgomery and Searcy both shot 51s.

Three days later, the Lady Bearcats turned in another 207, eight strokes behind host Woodford County at Moss Hill Country Club. Searcy led the way with a 49.

The Lady Bearcats will play Lexington Catholic Thursday at Connemara, then in the West Jessamine Invitational two days later on the same course. Monday, Anderson enters Region 7 play at Kearney Hills in Lexington.

Mount is ready, now is time to get back in woods

National Hunting and Fishing Day set for Saturday

I got a phone call with some good news while putting this month's outdoor column together. Justin Tinsley called to let me know my big 13-pointer from last gun season is just about ready to be picked up at his taxidermy shop.

Needless to say, I was pretty excited to hear from Justin and look forward to seeing how my deer mount turns out. Justin did a great job on my son Hunter's big 8-pointer a couple of years back so I am confident mine will look great, too. I've just got to find a good wall that's not already occupied by other mounts to put it on.

Archery season for deer (and turkey) opened on Sept. 6 and I've already heard and seen some nice deer that have been harvested. The cooler weather over the past several weeks has really made it nice for getting into the woods. Rumor has it that we're in for another rough winter so we better enjoy what we have now while we can. I've seen quite a bit of mast in the woods so it appears, at least in some of my stomping areas, that the wildlife should have food for a while. I've found several areas of white oaks that are dropping acorns and deer feeding sign in these areas is evident. Walnuts and hickory nuts seem to be fairly plentiful for squirrel consumption this year also.

Jeff Lilly
Columnist

National Hunting and Fishing Day

National Hunting and Fishing Day is coming up Saturday, Sept. 27 this year. Try to get out and enjoy what the good Lord blessed us with in the great outdoors.

This would be a great day to take a kid out and make some memories hunting or fishing. Go to www.nhfd.org and check out the site dedicated to the day. It has information, maps and links to each state's Department of Fish and Wildlife or Department of Natural Resources depending on where you live.

There is plenty of information that can help direct you to a local patch of woods or lake for hunting or fishing. The website also contains hunting and fishing facts that show the benefits of using our natural resources wisely.

The first official National Hunting and Fishing Day proclamation was signed by President Richard M. Nixon on May 2, 1972. Since then it has been held each year on the fourth Saturday in September. Get outside, enjoy the day and help promote hunting, fishing, trapping and the great outdoors in general.

Kentucky deer and vehicles don't mix well

Wild Turkey Bourbon, Ale 8 and a little ice make for a wonderful mixture to sit back on the porch and enjoy after a long day of deer hunting. Unlike the "all Kentucky" beverage mixture mentioned, the mixture of Kentucky vehicles and deer on the roadways doesn't mix nearly as well.

A recent insurance study I read shows the Bluegrass State ranks as the 13th most likely state to hit a deer while driving. Drivers in the state have a 1-in-107 chance of hitting a deer on Kentucky roadways. I happened to be one of those drivers in the past year.

West Virginia tops the list with 1-in-39 odds of auto tenderizing venison on their highways. Rounding out the top five were Michigan, Pennsylvania, Iowa and Montana.

Hawaii ranked last on the list and is the least likely place for a vehicle-deer collision with odds at 1 in 9,931. I threw that one in just in case you needed another reason to go to Hawaii.

Seasons

Fall is here and so are the beginning of most of Kentucky's hunting and trapping seasons. Don't forget about the great fall fishing in our streams, rivers, ponds and lakes.

Youth Only Deer Hunting Weekend is slated to be held on Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 11-12. Check with Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources for rules and regulations regarding this and any other hunting or fishing trip before going afield.

Oct. 1 - Crossbow season opens on Oct. 1 and closes on Oct. 19 for deer and turkey hunting. Hunting season for raccoon and opossum also opens.

Oct. 18-19 - Early muzzleloader season for deer.

Oct. 25-31 - Early fall season for turkey hunting with shotguns.

Quick shots

*Another season that a lot of folks may not know even exists is the ginseng harvest season. The season for this highly valuable medicinal root opened Sept. 1 and closes Dec. 1.

*Don't forget to send your upcoming hunt details and pictures to The Anderson News or contact me direct if you have an adventure you would like included in a future outdoor column.

Take a kid hunting, trapping or fishing soon!

See ya outside!

Scouting now increases chances for a successful deer hunt

By Kevin Kelly
Ky. Dept. of Fish & Wildlife Resources

Work, family and school commitments can leave little free time in a day, but hunters can help themselves by carving out some time to scout an area.

Kentucky's archery season for deer is underway with the crossbow, youth-only firearm, muzzleloader and modern gun deer seasons still to come. So there's time to find a place to hunt and scout it.

"I think it increases your odds of success and your chances for a big deer," said Chad Miles, an avid deer hunter and executive director of the Kentucky Fish and Wildlife Foundation.

Studying topographical maps and satellite imagery is a good first step to learning the lay of the land and scouting more efficiently. But there's no substitute for personal experience; walking the terrain; seeing where the deer bed, what's available for them to eat and what routes they travel.

"If you can spend enough time at the property, know how deer move through it," said David Yancy, deer biologist with Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources.

"Where are the choke-points? Know the creek drainage pattern. The low spot on the ridge-line? That's where they're going to cross because it's less effort. Those kinds of things are important during gun season."

Miles prefers scouting around midday and no closer than two weeks before he plans to hunt. Any later risks

Preseason scouting increases the chances of a successful deer hunt. Kentucky hunters set September harvest records in each of the past three seasons and are off to a productive start this year.

spooking the deer. To limit human scent left behind, wear rubber boots and be mindful about touching or handling tree branches and leaves. Some may prefer to wear scent control clothing or spray.

Tracks, droppings and hair caught on fencing are tell-tale signs deer are in the area. Rub lines and scrapes are additional clues that show up as deer transition from their summer pattern. Deer become less visible in open spaces as acorns begin to hit the ground and the rut approaches. After the rut, available food sources and cover become all-important.

"If you're not hunting big, timbered areas, you're looking for bottleneck areas where you've got thickets near fence lines that connect forage areas," Miles said. "Big deer are going to do their absolute best to remain out of sight as much as they can until the rut makes them crazy. They're going to slip through those little areas where they're going to be visible the least amount of time. I'm looking for those types of areas if I'm scouting for gun season."

A handheld Global Positioning System is a handy tool that can help a hunter keep track of these key spots and potential tree stand locations.

When considering a stand location, note the wind direction. This is easily accomplished with wind direction powder or by simply crumbling a dried leaf and tossing it into the air. Checking the weather online the day of a hunt can help determine where to set up.

"The quicker you can get to that stand and get your scent off the ground and create as little disturbance as possible, the best chance you're going to be successful going after that big deer," Miles said.

On wildlife management areas and Otter Creek Outdoor Recreation Area, hunters may use a portable stand or climbing device as long as it does not injure a tree.

Nails, spikes, screw-in devices, wire or tree climbers cannot be used to attach a tree stand or climb a tree. Portable stands may not be placed in a tree more than two weeks before opening day and must be removed within a week after the last day of each hunting period.

The hunter's name and address should be clearly marked on the portable stand.

Archery season for deer in Kentucky continues through Jan. 19, 2015.

Hunters set September harvest records in each of the past three seasons and the numbers indicate this season is off to another strong start. Archers reported taking more than 3,100 deer as of Sept. 18 with antlered deer making up roughly one third of the harvest total.

Scouting after the season can help a hunter get a leg up on the following year, but it's important to be mindful of season dates. If scouting during the modern gun, muzzleloader and youth firearm deer seasons, or a firearm elk or firearm bear season, wearing hunter orange is highly recommended.

The crossbow deer seasons are Oct. 1-19 and Nov. 8-Dec. 31, while the youth-only firearms season for deer is Oct. 11-12. Muzzleloader season is Oct. 18-19 and Dec. 13-21. Statewide modern gun deer season opens Nov. 8 and continues through Nov. 17 or Nov. 23, depending on the zone.

SATURDAY SEPTEMBER 27, 2014 11:00 A.M.

ROBERT L. BURKE ESTATE

467 ACRES MORE OR LESS IN THREE FARMS

OWEN COUNTY, KENTUCKY

LOCATION: Auction to be held on Loop No. 4 just off of U.S. 127 (4445 US 127 South) in Owen County near Monterey south of Owenton. Signs and arrows posted. (All three farms will sell from this location.)

FARM NO. 1: LOOP NO. 4 OF OLD US 127. 145 acres more or less located on Loop No. 4. This farm is improved with a two story frame home and barn. The land on this tract consists of some cleared ridge land, some bottom on the rear and woods. This is a good agricultural, cattle, or recreational piece of real estate.

FARM NO. 2: BURKES LANE JUST OFF US 127: Approximately 173 acres with good frontage on Burkes Lane. This parcel is a combination of rolling land, some cleared ridges and wooded acreage. This farm has two barns and has been used for hay, crops, and pasture and offers outstanding recreational opportunities.

FARM NO. 3: SEVERN CREEK ROAD: This tract is 149 acres more or less on Severn Creek. This farm has agricultural improvements, some bottom cropland, and woods. This tract also joins Farm No. 2 above.

AUCTIONEERS NOTE: This is a great opportunity to purchase Owen County land at auction. Again, all three farms will sell at the Loop No. 4 location and will sell individually with no grouping.

PUBLIC INSPECTION:

SUNDAY SEPTEMBER 21, 2 TO 4 P.M.

TERMS: Ten percent deposit day of the auction with balance due on or before October 27, 2014.

5000 SQ. FT. HOME ON 32 ACRES

SUNDAY SEPTEMBER 28TH 1:30 PM

LOUISVILLE, KY

LOCATION: 14700 Potter Road, Louisville, KY 40299, Take Gene Snyder to Billtown Rd, left on Seatonville, right on Dawson Hill to property.

REAL ESTATE: 5000 sq. ft. beautiful estate home on 32 acres only a few miles from Gene Snyder Freeway. This home has it all, 4 large bedrooms, 3 full baths, with the master suite on the first floor that boasts a large master bath with whirlpool tub and walk in shower. Large open floor plan with oversized kitchen looking out to dining area and living room. The living room is something most dream of with a stone fireplace and large windows that look out to a pond, gazebo, and park like scene. The basement is a walk out and finished with a large recreation room for entertaining. This property is rare in Jefferson County due to its privacy. The driveway is approx. a half mile long leading to the home and the owners have already done all the expense and work to get city water and electric back to this private, scenic home. If you have wanted land and a extremely nice home in great location, this is your opportunity.

ABSOLUTE AUCTION
SAT., SEPT. 27TH, 10:00 AM

DAN & REGINA MCCAULEY
BUILDING & LOT

PROPERTY LOCATION:

9996 Lawrenceburg Road, Chaplin, (Nelson County) KY. Directions: From Bloomfield, KY - take Hwy. 62 East about 10 miles to the property on your left. Auction signs posted.

Reason For Sale:

Regina has closed her business (Nee Nee's Boutique) and is retiring and has commissioned Bishop Realty & Auction, LLC, to sell at ABSOLUTE AUCTION the following property under the terms and conditions as stated.

Real Estate: Selling a nice multi-use building that was formerly The Fairmount Church of Christ prior to the McCauley's purchasing it and turning it into a boutique. Over 3,000 sq. ft. of finished space with 2 1/2 baths. Central Air & Heat, kitchen area and 2 rooms upstairs. This property is zoned residential and could be converted to a nice home with some interior remodeling. Large gravel parking lot and good highway frontage on Hwy. 62 and Fairmount Church Road.

Terms: Real Estate - 20% down the day of sale and the balance with deed and possession on or before October 27th, 2014. This property was built prior to 1978 and all prospective purchasers have until September 26th, 2014 to inspect for lead based hazards. 10% Buyers Premium added to the final bid to determine the total sales price.

For more information contact Chris Bishop at 249-0333 or David Bishop at 249-0328.

OPEN HOUSE:
WEDS., SEPT. 24TH - 4:00 P.M. to 6:00 P.M.

84 PERCENT

That's how many Kentucky adults read a daily, Sunday or weekly newspaper in an average week.

That's more than 5 out of 6 people.

And truth be told, we like to think that 6th person may be listening while one of the other five reads out loud.

In the newspaper.
